

PLATONI Kalliopi (Pola), PhD

Medical Physics Unit

2nd Department of Radiology, Medical School, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens

Attikon University Hospital

Dr Platoni K. currently holds the position of Medical Physicist in Medical Physics Unit at “Attikon” University Hospital, Athens, Greece. She obtained her Bachelor degree in Physics from the University of Patras, Greece in 1994 and her postgraduate diploma in Sciences in Radiological and Medical Physics from the University of Paul Sabatier, France in 1995. She also obtained a University diploma in Radiosurgery and Radiotherapy in stereotactic condition from the Université Pierre et Marie Curie, France (1996). She received her PhD in Medical Physics from the University of Paul Sabatier, France (1998) and the diploma of qualification in Radiological and Medical Physics (1999). She worked as medical physicist for the quality assurance of Artemis - 3D TPS for stereotactic irradiations at Dosigray Co, France (09/1996 – 10/1998), and as a medical physicist at the following departments: Radiation Oncology Dept, Hartmann Hospital, France (10/1999- 03/2001), Radiation Oncology Dept, Tenon Hospital, France (04/2001-09/2002) and Radiation Oncology Dep, Athens Medical Center, Greece (10/2002-05/2005). She has also teaching experience in educational courses and postgraduate programs. She has published more than 30 papers in peer-review international scientific journals, with more than 250 citations (Scopus database) with h-index 8. She has participated as presenter, invited lecturer or chairwoman to over 50 national and international congresses.